

Piano Building

The relation of art to the manufacture of pianos should not be misunderstood. If conducted with a proper realization of the possibility to be attained, musically speaking, it should be accredited as one of the fine arts. Our line of Pianos will fully demonstrate this fact: The STARR, BUSH & LANE, RICHMOND, REMINGTON, CHASE, etc. It's a line we are proud of.

CLAIM AN OLD SLAVE'S CASH.
Deposit of $400 Made in 1823 Has Grown to $6,000.

One of the most complicated cases on record in the recovery of "dead" funds in savings banks is being investigated by William P. Hamilton, Jr., and Albert J. Graefee, lawyers, who are trying to divide a $6,000 pie among 22 hungry heirs, says the New York World.

Stephen Skeer, or Scarr, who was born a slave in Elkton, Md., came to this city in 1823 and the following year deposited $400 in the Chamberlain Street bank, now the Bank for Savings, at Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street. August, 1824, he drew out $12.

The bank was unable to find any of the heirs. In 1901 George A. Smythe took hold of the case. He found two heirs, John Andrew Stephen Skeer of 670 Third avenue, and John Alfred Scarr of 92 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and had them appointed administrators of the estate.

Charles C. Halpine, who was the attorney of record for the administrators, received $165 for his services. After his death he was supplanted by Williams and Caldwell, lawyers, who received $100.

Then other heirs suddenly turned up. They went to Lawyer Graefee and asked him to get the whole account readjusted. With Lawyer Hamilton he filed objections to the account in the surrogate's office and Edward G. Whitaker of 141 Broadway was chosen referee. A hearing will come up soon. With compound interest of 74 years the amount would be $6,000.

Scarr alleges that he has not had what is due, and with 20 other heirs has placed a claim in Lawyer Hamilton's hands.

THEY'RE MOSTLY LIKE THIS.

Beautiful Faith of Woman in the Man She Loved.

"People think that because I am a woman," said Mrs. Betty Green, "I can be imposed on; but usually they find out their mistake."

She was talking about a lawyer wherein she had disputed her lawyer's bill, and this topic naturally led her to the topic of women's trustfulness.

"There's a case in point," said Mrs. Green, smiling grimly, "about a young and pretty school teacher. She once asked her class for an original definition of the word 'wife'."

"A wife is a rib," said one little girl.

"Wives are guiding stars," said another.

"A comforter," said a third.

"An inspiration," said a fourth.

"Altogether the definitions were rather prosy and commonplace, but finally a child of 11, smiling archly, said:

"A wife is a person for a man to find fault with when things go wrong."

"Good!" cried the pretty teacher, laughing. "Good! That is the best definition of all. The best, the truest."

"But that afternoon on the way home from school, the little girl whose definition had so pleased, tripped demurely up to the teacher and said:

"Are you not going to marry that tall, handsome young man I see you with nearly every night?"

"Yes," said the teacher.

"Well, then, if my definition of a wife was true—"

"Ah, dear, with us nothing will ever go wrong. He says so himself."

MAKES PLEA FOR GAME.

London Journal Condemns Suggestion of Slaughter.

We remember the saying attributed to Huxley that the single ladies of old England are to be thanked for the superiority of our beef, because they keep cats to destroy the mice that would otherwise exterminate the humble bees that fertilize the red clover on which our cattle are fed. Now some one is writing the Spectator to propose the slaughter of game in the Zambesi valley in order to prevent the spread of sleeping sickness. The proposal hinges on what we consider to be the mistaken statement by Mr. Austen of the British museum, that the tsetse fly cannot exist long without mammalian blood. The other step in the argument is no more sure—namely, that the tsetse fly is indispensable to the spread of sleeping sickness.

The evidence is not sufficient to condemn the game of even a portion of the Zambesi valley. The animal that demands mammalian blood is, we fancy, far greater than the tsetse fly, and the fact that, unlike the deer, he is capable of writing to the papers, must not be allowed to prevail—London News.

Hire the Fewer.

A Washington man, wishing to take his family into the country for the summer, one day crossed over to the Virginia side of the Potomac to look at a small farm with a view to renting it, says Harper's Weekly.

Everything was to his liking and negotiations were about to be completed when the question of hiring also the farmer's cow came up. It was an excellent cow, the farmer declared, and even after feeding her calf she would give six quarts of milk a day.

"Six quarts a day!" exclaimed the Washington man. "That is more than my whole family could use."

Then, suddenly observing the calf following its mother about the pasture, he added:

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll hire the small cow. She's just about our size."
